

We are preparing ourselves for spring which is just around the corner. However the manmade world doesn't seem to move at the same rhythm as nature.

The British intentionally dragged their feet long enough to break the momentum for peace negotiations in Ireland.

In Mexico the Zapatistas are inching closer the moment of signing a peace accord with the Government.

The press descended on Apple Computer with the most amazing array of desinformation and sheer incompetence that I have seen in years, fortunately we will have Apple for a long time to come.

The common thread here is that the internet is allowing us to communicate directly, to know facts usually withheld from us. The Zapatistas learned this interestingly enough before Apple Co. did, and I hope the Irish will increasingly use it to their benefit.
