Mr Meyer:

One of the issues that I am working on deals with current trends in digital photography. Since you are one of the most interesting of the digital artists out there, perhaps you could help me. I am looking for both writers and photographers for that issue. If you could offer a few images for publication, that would be great. Alternatively, perhaps you know of other writers or photographers that could use the exposure and are gifted in their field. Either way, your help would be greatly appreciated.
