The fortune of clicking into your exhibition site, came tonight via my friend Jim Stone. I came to look at his series of "Conversations" and spent the next two hours in Mexico's red light district, in Evgen Bavcar's Mirror of Dreams, thinking about my own symbolic blindness, spinning new definitions for why I hunger for creating and communicating through photography, all the while thinking how thankful I am for this excellent and expansive resource, ZoneZero. I am so excited, not to mention a little overwhelmed, with the prospect of spending many more hours with the artist's work on this website. Thank you and I look forward to learning from your dedication and publication of such a diverse selection of photographers/artists/humanitarians/storytellers...

My best to you,

Take care,
