Thank you for the amazing, inspirational and fantastically eclectic web site. There are obviously some items on here that are not exactly to my taste, it would be a sorry site where there to be. But there are images and sentiments that have moved me further than any recent exhibition I have seen, I particually was moved by Pedro Meyer's piece on his parents. Also Joseph Rodríguez and Rubén Martínez who's combination of images and words ran truly articulate fingers up my spine. And saying all this, I feel that I am only at the door of the library that I have stumbled upon.

I also have just read Pedro Meyer's article on digital photography and the future. I have been working with young people using digital photography to promote positive change upon a very run down estate that they live on. We are just beginning to see some change happening that will be recorded on line as soon as it happens. I thought that this would be of interest to you the url is www.kwmp.org/saferoutes I would hope that you have the time to visit it. I would also be most interested in being informed about future updates of your web site.

Many thanks again and best wishes.
