

Date: Sat, 7 Jul 2001 16:05:17 -0400

For several years I have been a teacher of college-level photography. Some years ago, I was asked to design an online credit course for a New Jersey college and some 350 students have now completed that course. I and they have learned much about craft and technology.

Lately I've been giving some thought to encouraging students to begin to tell stories with their pictures. Then I found your site. I guessed, nearly three hours have passed now as I've wondered about. I've thoroughly enjoyed what you have to offer and can humbly say that the design and level of interaction is outstanding. Could you better acquaint me with how you might consider working with an educator and some students who would be interested in telling their stories with pictures?

Many thanks as I look forward to hearing from you.

Jerry C. Holt

