

JimD

Written by JimD

Date: January 29, 2006 10:02:12 PM

I work as an engineer in Silicon Valley. My education is in photography. I have an MFA from the University of New Mexico. Even though I have a day job I do photography in my spare time. Digital tools have been a personal renaissance for me and my interest in photography since they facilitate the image making process without the need for a darkroom. For my interests Zone Zero is one of the better 'serious' sources for contemporary image making/

Regards,

JimD