

Photographers of the majority world unite! Friends, please take a minute to visit majorityworld.com, a database of images by photographers of the developing world. The idea is to create a website where photographers from developing countries get exposure on their work, offering opportunities for publication, recognition and commissions.

The quality and content of the images is superb and so is the generous spirit which is the foundation of the project. Take a look and see if perhaps your work could be part of this incredible multi-national project.

<http://www.majorityworld.com>