To a very good friend and photographer, who not only had a towering presence due to his height, but also through his gentle demeanor and profound respect for all cultures. A world traveler who was welcomed where ever he walked because he understood that he was always the center of attention by being so tall, and therefore needed to put those around him at ease. A man who would be capable of such intense feelings that he could easily be moved to tears when thinking of those whom he loved and cared for. A man respected for his art, and his dedication to photography.

Visit the Peter Pfersick's exhibition *"A vision of Latin America"* in the ZoneZero Gallery.
