

And yet another year went by. Time seems to be accelerating as we become ever more aware of simultaneous realities. Technology is largely responsible for this, and we at ZoneZero think this is enough reason to celebrate. We would like to make, of course, a photographic event out of this. With so many images being captured as the clock turns we invite all of you to share them with us.

Join us in this world wide event as we toast for a wonderful 2006 for all of you.

Happy New Year 2006
